

ABSTRACT

1 A gas inlet manifold for a plasma chamber having a perforated gas distribution plate suspended 2 by a side wall comprising one or more sheets. The sheets preferably provide flexibility to alleviate 3 stress in the gas distribution plate due to thermal expansion and contraction. In another aspect, the side 4 wall provides thermal isolation between the gas distribution plate and other components of the 5 chamber.